acquires the privileges of a higher life of truth. The individual is initiated into a life which has been totally recovered for him, and all the losses become rewarding gains. This pattern of refinement emerges in its final shape in the novels of the major phase in Henry James's career. By that time he was able to evolve a method of organically integrationg the thematic perceptions of refinement and its artistic formulations into a unified aesthetic Impulse. While Henry James revealed life in its Dionysian ecstasies by refining it Into a rapture of existence in the inner modes of human consciousness, he brought to bear on his artistic form an Apollonian vitality by refining it into its purely intellectual essences.
